

How to obtain your
OHIO DENTAL ASSISTANT RADIOGRAPHER CERTIFICATE
through the Cincinnati Dental Society Effective January 1, 2023

The Ohio Dental Assistant Radiographer Certificate is issued by the Ohio State Dental Board (OSDB). Before a dental assistant, or clinical personnel can apply for their certificate, they must complete a training course which has been approved by the OSDB. The Cincinnati Dental Society offers a home study course, which has been approved by the OSDB. The individual will work at their own pace under the supervision of a dentist or instructor at a dental assistant school. The following steps provide you with the necessary information needed to successfully obtain your Ohio Dental Assistant Radiographer Certificate

Step 1

Visit our website at www.cincinnatiadental.org or contact the Cincinnati Dental Society's Executive Office, (513) 984-3443, to order the "Introduction to Basic Concepts in Dental Radiography" manual. The cost of the manual is as follows

*Staff of Cincinnati Dental Society Members - $115 * Staff of American Dental Society Members - $125
Staff of Non-American Dental Society Members - $145*

Step 2

Study the manual completely and take the post-test which is in the back of the manual. There will be an answer sheet included with your packet of information. DO NOT RETURN THE ACTUAL TEST.

Step 4

Once you receive the letter stating you passed the test, begin the clinical training. This training is also required to successfully pass the home study course.
